

The impact of Trump-era immigration enforcement on public health in Oregon

AUTHOR: Daniel Morris*

TOPIC/TARGET AUDIENCE: Immigration / social justice

ABSTRACT: Aggressive policing of federal immigration laws is affecting communities in different ways. According to reports from around the country, fear of detention and deportation is keeping people from reporting crimes and using public services like WIC. This presentation will use recent data to describe the impact in Oregon.

OBJECTIVE(S): Describe the links between aggressive detention and deportation of immigrants and the decrease in utilization of public services.
Describe public health consequences of federal immigration policies.

PRIMARY CONTACT INFORMATION:

Daniel Morris, PhD

President

Daniel Morris Research, LLC

danielmorrisphd@gmail.com